Summer residents and visitors have fond memories of the Town House Hotel, Oak Crest Inn, Tammac Gatehouse, the Country Club and Casino, Dunsec's Sandwiches, the Dunes, and the Vineyard Seasonal House. Several of these landmark buildings survived until quite recently.

Although the original Dunsec buildings dated back 140 years, their vision for Falmouth Heights survived. Many original buildings, the 1870's picturesque and park settings, and the beautiful location and room views give evidence of the foresight of the original planners.

Falmouth Harbor

Falmouth harbor, now known as Falmouth Inner Harbor, was in 1996, still Dunsec's primary harbor. It was the original building and it was the primary access route to the Heights from town, with horse stalls for the carriages and carts located on the Falmouth Heights side of the pond.

As Falmouth grew as a summer resort, the need for a good harbor became apparent. After much negotiation, Dunsec's Dock was chosen. The town would have to approve a cost of $30,000 and the state would have to supply $25,000. In 1907 town meeting approved the necessary funds and construction began. George Washington Goodhue, who later worked on the Panama Canal, was hired as consultant. On September 12, 1908 the first boat entered Falmouth's new harbor.

The Falmouth Heights Improvement Association first met in the summer of 1899 at the Cottage Club and was formed to put an end to the "dirt" free streets and the "dirt" free streets and the "dirt" free streets and the "dirt" free streets. The association was responsible for the construction of a boardwalk that extended the entire length of the waterfront, the installation of street lights and the landscaping of the boardwalk from the beach and the purchase and maintenance of a waterfront lot on the waterfront for the use of the town. The association was reorganized in 1943 "for the maintenance of a full-time police force for the defense of the residents of Falmouth Heights, a section of the Town of Falmouth, consisting of the land and water mass known as "the general welfare of the community." In early 1946, because of the interest of many residents of low-income family who lived in the area, the association expanded to include that area and it became known as the Falmouth Heights Improvement Association. Over the years, the association has actively supported political candidates and worked to support the local interests, and has been involved in the effort to maintain street lights and sewage systems, and has resisted pollution. The association has more recently worked with the developers of the just completed Captain's Walk. A neighborhood accomplishment, that has undoubtedly greatly improved the quality of life is the elimination of night-time operators in the former Tammac Gatehouse building and the subsequent construction of residential units at the site. The town was also successful in retaining history and the buildings that are going to be converted to a growing senior at Falmouth High School.
